

Working Time Society: Special Member Honors: "Fellow" and "Honorary Member"

Call for Nominations

The Working Time Society (WTS) Constitution and Bylaws include two special member honors: a "Fellow" of the Society for WTS members and an "Honorary Member" for non-members. These are to recognize extraordinary or sustained, superior accomplishments of an individual. To be considered for these honors, the eligibility criteria below must be satisfied. In addition, the candidate's distinction as a scientist and professional in the field of working time and health must be demonstrated.

Eligibility Criteria:

There are two eligibility criteria for a Fellow: International Service and Membership in the Working Time Society

There are two eligibility criteria for an Honorary Member: International Service and not being a member of the Society

International Service: This includes such activities as service to the WTS, an extensive publication record in international journals, international consulting, service to the United Nations, European Union, or International Labor Office, and similar contributions.

Membership in Society (applicable for a Fellow): The candidate must have been a Full Member in good standing of the WTS (formerly known as the International Society for Working Time and Health Research) for at least the preceding 5 years. Student membership and Associated Membership do not confer eligibility.

Distinction Criteria: The candidate should have made outstanding contributions to ergonomics/human factors. There are many ways in which this can be demonstrated. For example, the candidate could have had the primary responsibility for the technical direction, supervision or management of a significant effort during a sustained period of time. The candidate could be a well renowned researcher or consultant of great distinction.

Clear evidence of distinction should be supported by detailed descriptions and attachments to the nomination form that is submitted by the person nominating the candidate. For example, for a researcher, the most significant publications authored or co-authored by the candidate should be attached to the application. For a consultant, the most important consulting contracts should be outlined, together with the outcome of the contracts. Any other information to support or attest to the achievements of the candidate should be furnished to the WTS Honours and Awards Committee, in order to support their deliberation of the candidate's merits. Nominations will be voted on by the Executive Board and announced during the next general assembly, which will be held during the upcoming symposium (Shiftwork 2025).
